

What We Learned / What We Recommend

2023–2025 Area 41 FUNction Ad Hoc Committee

What We Learned

- Participation depends less on willingness and more on access, clarity, and connection.
- Cost, distance, scheduling, and agenda design affect who is able to show up and take part.
- Engagement increases when service roles are clear and meaningful (Concepts IV & IX).
- Workshops, sharing, and discussion increase participation; report-heavy meetings reduce it.
- Information often flows outward from the Area but not consistently back from groups.
- Current meeting formats and costs can limit participation by excluding smaller or outlying groups.
- Longer breaks and focused workshops improved calm, attendance, and unity.
- Trust in the service structure and Area body can support healthier decisions.

What We Recommend

- Make participation easier through rotating, hybrid, or pre-assembly formats.
- Strengthen orientation and training so servants understand both how and why service works.

- Design agendas that prioritize workshops, discussion, and connection.
- Reduce time spent on reports and procedural debate - to allow for participation.
- Improve two-way communication with groups.
- Review costs and formats with attention to who can actually attend.
- Expand language access, including interpretation and clear written materials.
- Encourage service environments that feel welcoming, connected, and enjoyable.
- Allow chairs/committees/trusted servants flexibility to experiment and adjust through group conscience.

What This Report Is

- Observations and lessons learned
- A resource for future trusted servants

What This Report Is Not

- Rules or mandates
- A replacement for group conscience

This handout is a brief summary only. The full report is available at area41.org.
